LOOKING TOWARDS THE FUTURE WITHIN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

$1,500 Scholarships; three recipients chosen from the following universities:
• Ball State University
• Purdue University
• IUPUI

The Construction Financial Management Association (CFMA) is the voice of financial management in the construction industry and the only non-profit organization dedicated to serving the construction financial professional. Established in 1981, CFMA has more than 6,000 members and 86 chapters in major cities across the U.S. CFMA is the communications leader and premier source of education and information about those aspects of financial management unique to the construction industry. CFMA meets the needs of a broad spectrum of financial managers: CFO’s, treasurers, controllers, and accountants. CFMA’s General Membership represents all types of contractors, including generals and subcontractors, as well as developers, construction managers, architects, engineers, principals, and material and equipment suppliers.

CFMA of Central Indiana is THE group of individuals committed to creating opportunities and providing solutions for the construction financial manager.

Students must meet the following criteria:

a. Cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale.
b. Current academic status of junior or senior by Fall of 2015 (56 + credit hours)
c. Construction Technology Major
d. Demonstrated interest in construction industry or construction finance.
e. Enrolled on a full-time basis (or making progress toward a degree with graduation within 4 semesters).
f. United States citizen and enrolled in Indiana College/University.
g. May win one time only.
h. Must attend annual Scholarship Meeting.